Fi Fy Hun

S4C is preparing for a new television programme aimed at young Welsh learners. They have recently advertised that they are looking to appoint a teenage presenter for this programme who is actually learning Welsh themselves at the moment. They have asked for applications to be made in as imaginative a format as possible and will appoint the person who can sell themselves in the most appealing way. You should include writing to show them that you can use the Welsh you have learned in school effectively and you should try to show that you are an interesting, fun-loving personality too. There may be a lot of travel involved so you could also discuss your last family holiday! You could use your art and design skills to help sell yourself or you could incorporate your ICT skills to good effect in doing so (Word, Publisher, Excel etc). Your presentation could be in any format and should be detailed and attractive:
